GLOBAL E-LEARNING SYSTEMS USER GROUP CONFERENCE COMES TO LONDON

The latest in a series of User Group conferences organised by eXact learning solutions takes place at the Ibis London Earl's Court Hotel on 2nd February. The User Group conference is a preface to the two-day Learning Technologies conference and exhibition, which opens the following day in London's Olympia – and at which eXact learning solutions will be exhibiting.

With clients from around the world, the Italy-based digital learning content management business solution provider regularly organises User Group conferences – to enable delegates to discover eXact learning solutions' plans for further develop and expand the eXact suite of products. Moreover, there will be a "user case studies" session, where learning content management system (LCMS) users share their experiences and achievements through using the eXact learning LCMS platform.

"In addition, the User Group gives delegates a great chance to engage in some high quality business networking with their peers from around the world and to interact with the most recent organizations to become part of the eXact universe," said Valerio Torda, eXact learning solutions' Managing Director. "This is only the second time we've held a User Group conference in London and we expect the venue, along with having the opportunity to visit the Learning Technologies event, to attract a large number of users of our products."

"As is usual at eXact learning solutions' User Group conferences, all delegates will have the chance to air their views on the company's products and services – and set out their 'wish list' for further developments to the LCMS," said Federico Dondero, eXact learning solutions' International Sales Manager.
